

Peer-reviewed article

*From 2019 I publish under the name Grolig

Clemens, F., & Grolig, T. (2022). What will you do when they think it was you? Counter-interrogation strategies of innocent interviewees under suspicion vs. no suspicion. Journal of Police and Criminal Psychology. DOI: 10.1007/s11896-022-09525-7

Koller, D., Hofer, F., Grolig, T., Ghelfi, S.M., & Verschuere, B. (2020). What are you hiding? Initial validation of the reaction time-based searching concealed information test. Applied Cognitive Psychology. DOI: 10.1002/acp.3717

Gubi-Kelm, S., Grolig, T., Strobel, B., Ohlig, S., & Schmidt, A.F. (2020). When Do False Accusations Lead to False Confessions? Preliminary Evidence for a Potentially Overlooked Alternative Explanation. Journal of Forensic Psychology Practice. DOI: 10.1080/24732850.2020.1714388

Clemens, F., & Grolig, T. (2019). Innocent of the crime under investigation: Suspects' counter-interrogation strategies and statement-evidence inconsistency in strategic vs. non-strategic interviews. Psychology, Crime & Law.

Sooniste, T., Granhag, P.A., & Strömwall, L. (2017). Training Police Investigators to Interview to Detect False Intentions. Journal of Police and Criminal Psychology, 32, 152-162. DOI: 10.1007/s11896-016-9206-9

Mac Giolla, E., Granhag, P.A., Sooniste, T., & Strömwall, L. (2016). Discriminating Between Statements of True and False Intent: The Impact of Repeated Interviews and Strategic Questioning. Journal of Applied Security Research. 11, 1-17

Sooniste, T., Granhag, P. A., Strömwall, L. A., & Vrij, A. (2015). Statements about true and false intentions: Using the Cognitive Interview to magnify the differences. Scandinavian Journal of Psychology, 56, 371-378. DOI: 10.1111/sjop.12216

Sooniste, T., Granhag, P. A., Strömwall, L. A., & Vrij, A. (2014). Discriminating between true and false intent among small cells of suspects. Legal and Criminological Psychology. Advance online publication. DOI: 10.1111/lcrp.12063

Sooniste, T., Granhag, P. A., Knieps, M., & Vrij, A. (2013). True and false intentions: Asking about the past to detect lies about the future. Psychology, Crime & Law, 19, 673-685. DOI: 10.1080/1068316X.2013.793333

Review articles, book chapters, books

Sooniste, T. (2015) Discriminating Between True and False Intentions: Questions to Pose and Cues to Use. PhD thesis. Department of Psychology, University of Gothenburg, Sweden. The E-published version of the thesis: <http://hdl.handle.net/2077/38724>

Sooniste, T. (2013) Eliciting Cues to True and False Intentions by Strategic Questioning. Ph.Lic. thesis. Department of Psychology, University of Gothenburg, Sweden